Deering Disc Harrow

We have just added to our large line of farming implements a shipment of Deering Disc Harrows and cordially invite our farmer friends to come and look them over. The farmer of today has come to realize that progress in the world's affairs depends largely on the proper advancement of agricultural methods. This is one of the reasons why he is particularly interested in the disc harrow. He can force his soil to yield its full share of the golden grain when it formerly produced little or nothing.
